Sandwiches which are eaten by millions of people all over the world were invented in 1762 by Earl Sandwich. Earl was playing cards with his friends when he became hungry. As he did not want to stop playing, his servant has put cheese and meat between two pieces of bread. Earl could eat with one hand and play with the other. When the food was served and Earl's friends saw it they liked the idea and soon all of them asked for it for their meals. The idea became very common because people could eat while doing something else to save time. In the twenty first century, there are few places where sandwiches are not enjoyed by many people.
